AMERICA AND HAWAII.

Representative Reyburn Talks of the Situation.

Mr. Reyburn of Pennsylvania said to a Star reporter today:

This last batch of correspondence in the Hawaiian matter merely emphasizes what we have already known about the savagery of this ex-queen, and it is not necessary to the forma-tion of a judgment of the matter, though contributary. The original Stmr James Makee, Hagiund, for Kapaa. controversy in Hawaii is based on the Stmr J A Cummins, Neilson, for Koolau proposition that we are having trouble all the while growing out of the claim by non-resident property holders in certain localities that their rights and interests should be recognized.

Our non-resident owners of seashore property are constantly contending for this right. The difference is that in Hawaii the contest was between the wealth and intelligence on one side the wealth and intelligence on one side and bad government, ignorance and savagery on the other. The revolutionists were compelled, in self-preservation, to revolt, and they should have our sympathy and countenance, and the hand of this government should not be lifted against them. Take Mr. Blount's report and rob it. Take Mr. Blount's report and rob it of its own comments and deductions and it furnishes sufficient justification for the revolution. I do not require anything more than this.

I have tried to look at this thing from Mr. Cleveland's point of view, and think if it were possible that I could, being placed in the same position he was, have come to the same conclusions as to my duty in the matter. I have been unable, however, to see any reason that was sufficient or any justification for the policy he has adopted. England might just as well come here and demand that we give up this government and restors savage chiefs who sat upon these hills | He'd find the lad grown big an' strong when the first settlers came here. I do not know that I would have Congress pass any resolution condemnatory to his victim. I think I would that drop, but I think Congress should pass a resolution re-affirming the recognition of the Provisional Government which has maintained itself and preserved order for many mouths, and which represents the wealth and intelligence and civiliza-

There is nearly forty millions of American wes th in that Island and it is natural and proper that the men whose money and business interests are there should desire good govern-ment and should use every means in their power to secure it. We have no right to attempt to establish a savage monarchy over them and insist that they shall yield. It may be that there is a difference of opinion of the ques-tion annexation, but I do not see how there can be any as to our duty Feb 21 as between the intelligent civiliza-Feb 21 tion and the maintenance of savagery.-Washington Star.

ANOTHER CANARD.

The Fertile Fancy of Someone in Washington.

The Washington Star is responsible for the discovery set forth below:

A member of Congress, who has taken a lively personal interest in Hawaiian matters, both before and since the revolution, is authority for a statement that a movement was on foot two months later before the revolution of last January, and that it was well known in Washington, and among many Congressmen.

"When the last session of the Fiftysecond Congress assembled in December, 1892" he said to a Star reporter, "some men, arrived in Washington for the purpose of inviting fifty or more members of Congress who were re-elected to the next Congress, to visit the Hawaiian Islands in May, 1893.

"To a few persons it was known that a revolution was contemplated to take place on the 12th of May, 1893.

"The revolution was to occur, of course, while the visiting Congressmen were in Hawaii. The effect of such a coincidence is apparent. The Congressmen would be on the spot, and would be in a position to bear testimony of the worthiness of the people and their cause who attempted to bring about the change of govern-ment, and would be enabled to see for themselves the necessity of an American solution of the Hawaiian prob-lem,' to quote Blaine's words. The men who were promoting this undertaking were democrats.

"The plan was frustrated, however, by the revolution coming off before schedule time, owing to the stand taken by the queen, and her deter-mination to overthrow the constitution. The revolution was accom-plished, and the rest is history."

The dance du ventre has reached San Francisco, and the San Franciscans who know Hawaii say it greatly resembles the Hawaiian native hula-hula dance. Several Turkish girls from the Midway were taken to San Francisco to present their peculiar gyrations and gymnastics, but their manager very soon found that what goes in Chicago may not go in San Francisco any more than in New York. The dance was promptly suppressed.-Exchange.

WHAT WOULD WASHINGTON DO?

I often get a thinkin' what George Washington 'ud say Ef he could put on shoes ag'in an' step on earth today;

I wonder et he'd 'recoguize the kid he helped to raise, Au' et his heart 'ud swell with pride an' joy an' praise.

an' lusty since ets birth,
A right smart sort o' youngster
'mongst the nations o' the earth:

An' when he saw the wealth an' lands an' ships an' soldiers brave, I reckon he'd be proud to see the child he helped to save!

But when he'd read the papers an' talked around a bit, An' heard what folks ez sayin' an' seen the things 'at's writ,

I'll bet old George 'nd cogitate an' scratch his head a few. wonderef he wasn't in some other feller's pew.

For when he found 'at Uncle Sam was buildin' of a throne, I almost seem to hear the grand of patriot hero groan; Then he'd wrap Old Glory 'round 'im jest ez quick ez e'er he could, An climb back in the cold, cold tomb and die again for good!
